Media

AFRICSIS researchers make an effort to communicate with the public concerning WMD security issues and its societal impact. The media are an important gateway to the public, and our scientists, fellows, and interns are frequently featured.

Who’s Who in the Global Nonproliferation Community

The Global network of Nonproliferation Specialist Information Newsletter of the California-based James Martin Center for Nonproliferation Studies (CNS) recognizes AFRICSIS director and his work in Africa.

Ghana launches African Centre for Science and International Security

The Government of Ghana recognizes the role of AFRICSIS in filling a security and development gap in the continent.